Kids Growing Strong

The CGCI President's Project

Have you ordered your bulbs to benefit Maryanne Lucas' President's Project yet from the Sunshine Premium Bulb Company? If not, click here for the order form. Fifteen percent of sales goes to Maryanne's Project Kids Growing Strong. Help reach the goal by October 27, 2010. To see more information about the bulb program, click here to see Maryanne's blog.

Horticulture Chairman, Jim Bathgate, reports that the bulbs which Maryanne has chosen are Allium, Daffodils, Paperwhites and Amaryllis.

Allium is the genus that has onions and garlic. The blossoms are globular and may be rosy, lilac, blue, white or yellow in color. The blooms come in summer, and new bulbs develop for the next crop. Some blossoms are scented, and the stems may give off onion or garlic aroma if bruised.

after the plants dies back in Project, "Golden Days."

The paperwhites are all white flowers. In addition, the entire Daffodils and paperwhites both belong in the narcissus genus. Daffodils -- we generally think of as yellow but may come in white or shades of apricot, pink or scarlet. The blooms come in late winter or spring. New bulbs form each year, and the clump may be divided summer. Daffodils are the bulb of choice for the National Garden Clubs Inc. President's except for the stamens in the center. These are tough, consistent, beautiful low-care narcissus group is resistant to squirrels and gophers.

Amaryllis is the fourth bulb selected. It typically blooms in spring with large dramatic flowers. Colors range from shades of red or pink and some white or striped. The blossom stalk comes out as the leaves develop. The plants are considered tender because frost can damage the foliage. They are often grown in containers that can be protected in cold weather. In mild winter areas, they can be planted outdoors. They should not be confused with Amaryllis belladonna which is a much more hardy plant and blooms in summer after the leaves have turned brown. Botanically, the genus for the tender bulb is Hippeastrum.

Landscape Design

By Pat Clayes, NGC Landscape Design Consultant

Google Earth & Google Sketchup

During Course 3 of the Landscape Design Study Program held in San Andreas a few years ago, Steve McNeil (one of our favorite landscape design instructors, who also teaches at UC Davis) told the students about Google Earth and Google Sketchup. Google Earth lets you fly anywhere on Earth to view satellite imagery, maps, terrain, 3D buildings and even explore galaxies in the sky. You can explore rich geographical content, save your toured places and share with others. Google Sketchup is software that you can use to create, modify and share 3D models. It's easier to learn than other 3D modeling programs, which is why so many people are using it.

Landscape Commendation to Hyatt Regency Suites Palm Springs

During the CGCI President's Reception at the 2010 CGCI Fall Board Meeting in Palm Springs, the CGCI Landscape Design Council presented a commendation to the General Manager of the Hyatt Regency Suites Palm Springs. The award was for the hotel's carefree, aesthetic, cost-effective drought-tolerant landscaping around the pool area. The Palm Springs area does not receive a great deal of rainfall; thus lawns and other water-thirsty plants found in other areas of our country are not suited for the desert. A desert landscape will capture the beauty of the desert and save one of our great natural resources (water); which is also very expensive. Desert landscape also reduces the amount of maintenance which is required for the water thirsty-type landscapes. Desert landscapes use drought-tolerant sun plants which will thrive in the low rainfall areas, such as Palm Springs. Plants such as cacti and succulents are regularly used in a desert landscape. Once a properly planned desert landscape becomes established, all will be amazed at the natural beauty which a desert landscape can possess.

Landscape Design Commendations are presented by the CGCI Landscape Design Council for good land use. It may be given to individuals or groups upon the recommendation of individual members, clubs or districts. Click here for more information or contact the CGCI Landscape Design Council Chairman, Mary Lou Goodwin.

A True Inspiration

By Dann Dunst, Palms to Pines Assistant District Director, who gave the inspiration at the last dinner of the 2010 Fall Board Meeting in Palm Springs

"As I was thinking about what inspirational words I could find to share with you tonight, I began to think that there must be something pretty inspiring about a group of people who will travel from all over California to one of the hottest places in California to have a board meeting. I know that some might say, "It really is just a matter of dedication." But, I have belonged to many civic organizations in my time, and I am sure that you have also; however, I maintain that one does not remain dedicated to a cause or even join one without being inspired by that cause. For we are the people who stop to smell the roses, and we are the people who take that beauty and wonder of nature everywhere we go and to everyone we meet. Our sharing and love of horticulture is insatiable, whether it be that small plant in our garden window, a beautifully landscaped yard or garden, a downtown beautification project, a school project, a reforestation project, creating a floral design, taking a plant to an ailing friend or just giving a plant to someone just because. It is that love of horticulture and the sharing that we do which inspires us and those around us, and it's contagious. The inspiration truly comes from within our hearts and our love; it weaves and wraps around us like an ivy, feeding our souls, motivating us and blooms today and forever."

Gardeners never stop learning! From childhood through retirement years, CGCI offers many opportunities to continue the learning process.

California Garden Clubs, Inc. (CGCI) facilitates educational schools for National Garden Clubs, Inc. (NGC) throughout California. As part of its objectives, CGCI and NGC offer educational opportunities for its members and the public which are inexpensive and fun for those who attend.

The four schools which NGC offers are:

- Gardening Study Schools
- Landscape Design Study Programs
- Environmental Studies Schools
- Flower Show Schools

The schools consists of four ten-hour courses (except for Flower Show School, which hours vary according to the course). Garden club members and the public are welcome to attend.

Garden club members who successfully complete all four courses of Gardening Study, Landscape Design Study and/or Environmental Studies become accredited consultants; however, members who successfully complete all four courses of Flower Show School have additional requirements to fulfill before becoming accredited flower show judges. For more information, contact the individual CGCI schools chairmen.

Blogs

CGCI chairmen can now post their news on the new CGCI blog which is on the website. First you have to create a new account, which is then approved by CGCI. Click here to create a new account. After that, you will be able to log on and post your blogs. Any questions, contact the CGCI webmaster, Lynne Hansen.

Educational Brochures/Pamphlets

These educational brochures/pamphlets are a "joint effort" of many people to produce an informative, colorful brochure for clubs, districts and the general public to help understand what each chairmanship is about. Each chairman has been asked to provide a "draft" of an educational brochure/pamphlet with specific information on his/her chairmanship -- the draft to be sent to the Chairman of the Public Relations Team, Julie West. The Public Relations Team reviews the draft and forwards it to the Communications Chairman with suggested changes. The Communications Chairman then finalizes the new publication which is then presented to the Executive Committee and Board of Directors for approval.

The Penny Pines Chairman, Pat York, and the Blue Star Memorial Co-Chairmen, George Unrine and Judy Laird, are working on their pamphlets. How about you?
